

I hope you will be interested to hear that The Men's Bibliography has just been updated. As you may know, The Men's Bibliography is a comprehensive online bibliography of writing on men, masculinities, gender, and sexualities. You can find it at: <https://xyonline.net/books/bibliography>

Can I also remind you of the website XY (<http://www.xyonline.net>). XY is a website focused on men, masculinities, and gender politics. XY represents one of the most substantial resources on men and gender issues on the internet. And it is one of the most well-known, and linked-to, profeminist sites in the world

My Response to Dr. Michael Flood sharing of research, Thursday 25th June 2020. Ph. 383-6184.

Much thanks Michael. Very impressive Bibliographic collection. There will be lot you have stored, which can have long use by our present and future researchers, in a number of academic disciplines, including those learning from life experiences, either from cost factors or choice.

A lot of my work has potential for further development and one day that will be done either by me or others who feel the need to so do. There is so much to do and so little time. We must never be daunted by the STATE OF NEED, but continue to press on to the best of our abilities.

Our organisation Men Against Violence Against Women (MAVAW), just got granted Philanthropy Status from Microsoft Corporation, giving us free trial of Office 365, Cloud Version and Teams for 10 years, up to June 2030. Of course this is much appreciated, since they are constantly improving their products and Technology is key to dissemination, especially when you are on the path of FULL PHILANTHROPIC OUTREACH, seeking SOLUTIONS to humankind problems as opposed to giving CHARITY in individual cases.

The need for ARCHITECTURE to fully embrace all aspects of GENDER AND DEVELOPMENT in the training of Architects, is still not an urgent item for discussion and implementation. Be that as it may, enough work is being attempted to emphasize the importance of relationship dynamics in preparing Design Briefs for prospective Clients and participating in Competitions. Having lectured at our University of the West Indies (UWI) for 18 years in their Adult Education Programmes of Interior Design and Decoration and supervising the biggest Exhibitions they ever had, to date, I can testify to the need for this training. Will share the link of your work, to all my contacts on Facebook, LinkedIn and our Cloud archive <https://archive.org/details/@mavawsec>. Keep up your good work brother.
